DEADLY romance

Lucy Boynton heads up a star-studded drama about the notorious Ruth Ellis murder case

NEW DRAMA

A Cruel Love: The Ruth Ellis Story

Wednesday, 9pm, ITV1 (box set, ITVX)

The execution of Ruth Ellis in 1955 for the murder of her abusive lover David Blakely shocked the nation and became one of the most notorious cases in our judicial history.

Now, almost 70 years on, ITV1's four-part drama A Cruel Love: The Ruth Ellis Story takes a fresh look at the controversial case in which Ellis, played by Lucy Boynton, became the last woman to be hanged in Britain.

'Ruth was 28 and David was 25 and there was an emotive response from people to the case,' says Boynton, 31, whose credits include The Ipcress File and Bohemian Rhapsody.

'Some people felt she should be hanged because they worried other women would want to stand up for themselves. But the appetite for capital punishment had diminished, so others knew this was barbaric.'

Based on Carol Ann Lee's factual book A Fine Day for a Hanging: The Real Ruth Ellis Story, the series begins when ambitious Ellis is trying to overcome her difficult upbringing and past relationships as she takes over the running of Knightsbridge's Little Club and becomes the youngest nightclub manager in London. She soon attracts the attention of besotted ex-RAF pilot Desmond Cussen (Mark Stanley) and upper-crust racing driver David Blakely (Laurie Davidson).

'Ruth is contradictory, electric and this absolute force who has gone after a big, bright life for herself,' shares

Boynton. 'There's chemistry between her and David and a magnetism that keeps drawing them back. They're both incredibly intense.'

However, the torrid and toxic romance comes to a shocking and violent conclusion when Ellis shoots Blakely dead outside The Magdala pub in Hampstead – and following her arrest and confession to the police, she heads to trial at the Old Bailey...

ON TRIAL

Unlike 1985 film Dance with a Stranger, which starred Miranda Richardson, and which focused solely on the lead-up to the murder, A Cruel Love also examines its aftermath and the fight to save Ellis from the gallows.

Toby Jones plays dogged solicitor John Bickford, who is convinced there is more to the case and is intrigued by the complex love triangle between Ellis, Blakely and Cussen. He becomes increasingly desperate to expose the truth about how she obtained the gun and whether Cussen was involved.

Bickford also hopes that the abuse that Ellis suffered could be used as her defence, but she seems unwilling to speak out and save her own neck.

'It was Bickford's job to find mitigating circumstances. He struggled, though, because Ruth kept saying she was guilty and she wouldn't use Blakely's domestic violence as mitigation until it was too late,' reveals Mr Bates Vs The Post Office star Jones, 58.

Stars Laurie Davidson and Lucy Boynton

As the case comes to trial, Nigel Havers plays his real-life grandfather, Justice Cecil Havers, the presiding judge, who must decide if Ellis should face the death penalty.

'Bickford remained tortured by the fact that he wasn't able to save Ruth,' says Jones. 'There's footage of him in the 1970s and he was still haunted by the case and what he hadn't been able to do.'

The drama also spotlights repressive post-war attitudes towards women and explores the idea that Ellis' status as a single mother and her glamorous looks led to her being judged for far more than just her crime.

'In the 1950s, there was a traditionalism that contributed to how the world expected Ruth to be. The way she behaved was a rebellion against the way a woman was told she ought to behave,' says Boynton.

'She was made an example of, because of everything that she represented. But this drama is an in-depth look at Ruth, not as hero or villain, just as a person.'

Davidson and Boynton as Blakely and Ellis

THE REAL RUTH ELLIS

Ruth Neilson was born in Rhyl, North Wales, in 1926 and, after a series of troubled relationships, including a failed marriage to dentist George Ellis, she found herself at the heart of London's glitzy nightlife as a club hostess. On the night of 10 April 1955 – Easter Sunday – she tracked down her lover David Blakely at The Magdala pub in Hampstead, where she shot him dead in the street.

Her murder trial lasted less than two days, with the jury taking 14 minutes to reach their verdict and the death sentence passed. Despite petitions for her reprieve, on 13 July, she was executed by hangman Albert Pierrepoint at London's Holloway Prison. The case helped pave the way to the abolition of the death penalty for murder in 1969. But an appeal to overturn her conviction was rejected in 2003.

The Bay

Morecambe & lies

Lancashire-set crime drama The Bay is back for more seaside investigations

NEW CRIME DRAMA

The Bay

Sun-Tue, 9pm, ITV1 (box set, ITVX)

Experienced family liaison officer

DS Jenn Townsend (Marsha Thomason) is highly skilled at working with grieving relatives involved in police investigations. But as Morecambe-set crime drama The Bay returns for Season 5, it's Jenn herself and her nearest and dearest who are in need of a little support.

'Jenn's in a very different place this time,' reveals Thomason, 49. 'She's coming back to work after her father has died, so she's grieving. But she doesn't want to deal with her emotions.'

Returning to work early, against the advice of her boss DI Tony Manning (Daniel Ryan), Jenn's first case involves the family of a young woman called Hannah, whose body is found in a canal.

Meanwhile, problems are piling up in Jenn's private life thanks to stressed-out partner Chris (Barry Sloane), who is facing an Ofsted inspection at school, widowed mother Anne (Suzanne Packer) and son Conor (David Carpenter), who's about to fly the nest.

'Jenn isn't on top of her game, and it's been interesting to play her going through something different,' reveals Thomason, who replaced Morven Christie as The Bay's female lead at the start of Season 3.

'In my first season, she was the new kid on the block, and in the second she felt like she knew what she was doing. But now life's thrown her a curveball.'

NEW CHALLENGES

The raw grief of Hannah's mother Julie (Leanne Best), who is estranged from ex-partner Steve (Neil Maskell), is in stark contrast to Jenn's buttoned-up reaction to her own loss. And the arrival of her bereaved mother Anne only piles on the problems.

'Her mum is a lot,' smiles Thomason. 'She's constantly in Jenn's ear, putting her down, and nothing Jenn does is ever good enough.'

Among the directors for the new run is Endeavour and Until I Kill You actor Shaun Evans, and Ryan admits that having such a TV icon working behind the camera was initially a daunting prospect.

'I was nervous to work with Shaun,' he says. 'We've had an actor direct The Bay before, but Shaun's played the cop of all cops. You're getting directed by Endeavour Morse, and you think: "Please don't think I'm rubbish!"'

Meanwhile, as Jenn is struggling at home, her boss is enjoying an uncharacteristic upturn in his personal life, despite many workplace pressures.

'At work, the ceiling is leaking, and there's a lot of talk about budget cuts,' says Ryan. 'Tony is in charge of all that stuff, as well as being the senior investigating officer on the case. But at home, there's a bit of happiness and romance, because he has a new lady in his life, Sinead [Derry Girls actor Tara Lynne O'Neill]. However, he's also got something else on his mind that's bothering him, and it comes to fruition later in the series...

Marsha Thomason
and Daniel Ryan

Besides the new guest cast and returning regulars, the town of Morecambe, with its unique atmosphere and appearance, looms large in the series.

'The show's called The Bay for a reason, and Morecambe is absolutely fundamental to it,' explains writer Daragh Carville, who lives in the Lancashire seaside resort. 'On the one hand, it's very beautiful, with a sense of faded grandeur in the remnants of its heyday. But it's also quite a tough place, with real deprivation, and also a lot of pride. I hope the show reflects all of that.'

Tamara Lawrance
plays Millie-Jean

A UK detective
confronts her troubled past in Jamaica

Caribbean crime

NEW CRIME DRAMA

Get Millie Black

Wednesday & Thursday, 9pm, C4
(box set, Channel 4)

A no-nonsense, self-destructive detective quits Scotland Yard to chase ghosts from her past in this brooding thriller that delves into Jamaica's criminal underbelly.

Created by Booker Prize-winning novelist Marlon James, the five-parter – which begins with two episodes this week – follows rising-star investigator Millie-Jean Black (Tamara Lawrance), who was sent to live with relatives in London as a child but moves back to Kingston following her abusive mother's death.

While attempting to reconnect with her transgender sister, Hibiscus (Chyna McQueen), Millie-Jean and her partner, Curtis (Gershwyn Eustache Jnr), are assigned to find a missing schoolgirl. But when ambitious Scotland Yard cop Luke Holborn (Joe Dempsie) shows up in Jamaica with his own agenda, will Millie-Jean's past traumas blow her investigation apart?

'Millie-Jean is belligerent, hawk-eyed and driven by her heart for justice,' says Lawrance, 30. 'She isn't interested in being palatable. Work comes first, but she has a deep desire to cultivate a home with her sister.'

'The show is tense and surprising, and it has an awesome cast that includes the Jamaican queer and trans community. And the landscape of Kingston was integral to the authenticity.'

COMPLEX THEMES

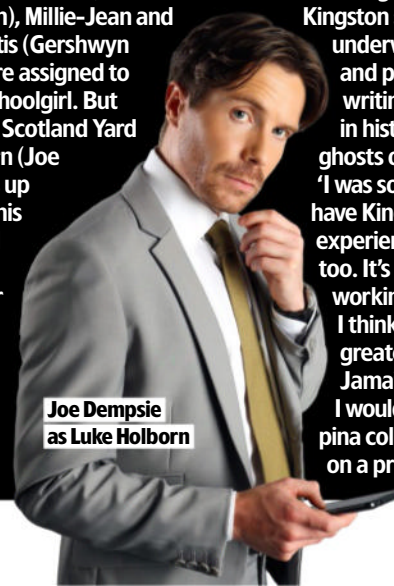

Filmed in both Jamaica and London, the drama deals with colonialism, homophobia and transphobia, as well as childhood trauma and cycles of abuse.

'It's ostensibly a cop show but it has loads of layers that make it hard to define,' says Dempsie, 37. 'It takes us through every level of Kingston society, from the underworld to the rich and powerful, and the writing feels steeped in history and the ghosts of the past.'

'I was so fortunate to have Kingston as my first experience of Jamaica, too. It's a vibrant, working city, and I think I got a much greater feel for Jamaican culture than I would've done sipping pina colodas in a resort on a pristine beach!'

NEW DRAMA

Towards Zero

Sunday, 9pm, BBC1
(box set, BBC iPlayer)

A knotty thread of tortured romances and shady pasts results in a shocking murder in BBC1's lavish adaptation of Agatha Christie's 1944 novel Towards Zero.

The three-part drama is set in 1936, as indomitable Lady Camilla Tressilian, played by Hollywood star Anjelica Huston (see panel, right), hosts a summer house party at her home, Gull's Point, on the Devon coast.

But trouble is brewing for the visitors, including Lady Tressilian's tennis-ace nephew Nevile (Oliver Jackson-Cohen) and his seductive new bride Kay (Mimi Keene) – who are faced with the arrival of Nevile's ex-wife Audrey (Ella Lily Hyland).

GAME PLAYING

'Nevile's a good sportsman with a drive to win and is the David Beckham of his time, but he has a complicated emotional life,' says Jackson-Cohen, 38, whose credits include The Haunting of Hill House.

'He and Audrey were this celebrity couple, like Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton. But now Kay has entered that dynamic. There's sexual tension but also a feeling of threat. It's a love triangle, but so much more. With Agatha Christie, the more you peel the onion, the more you uncover.'

To add to the already febrile atmosphere, Lady Tressilian is furious when her estranged nephew Thomas (Jack Farthing) turns up. Meanwhile, shrewd family lawyer Mr Treves (Clarke Peters) brings his unsettled teenage ward Sylvia (Grace Doherty) to stay at the nearby hotel. However, as tensions bubble over between the fraught guests, events culminate in a terrible murder...

Cue the arrival of Inspector Leach, who is tormented by his own past as he tries to sift through the intricate network of hidden motives that emerge at Gull's Point.

COMPLICATED CASE

'Leach is a loner with a romantic sense of justice,' shares The Americans star Matthew Rhys, 50, who plays him. 'He's dealing with his demons and trauma from World War One. But he has principles, which are reignited, and he tries to fix what's broken within him.'

'It's a messy investigation. He's trying to make sense of these crazy loose ends and these strange people. There's a ruthless ambition to these characters as well as themes of power, money, revenge and love.'

WOMAN OF MYSTERY

Anjelica Huston on the world of Agatha Christie...

Towards Zero marks Anjelica Huston's British-TV debut, and the Oscar winner is thrilled to be appearing in a classic whodunnit.

'Agatha Christie is the queen of crime and this is a fiendishly clever murder mystery with fabulous characters you'll love and love to hate,' says the American star of The Addams Family and Prizzi's Honor.

And the 73-year-old certainly delivers a pitch-perfect English accent as no-nonsense aristocrat Lady Camilla Tressilian.

'I grew up in the west of Ireland but also in England, so I have an education in English accents,' she reveals. 'Lady Tressilian is the matriarch of this unruly family. They have lots of problems, but she has a way of getting everyone to do what she wants.'

Anjelica Huston
as Lady Tressilian

The drama re-creates the glamour of the era with stunning costumes, and also portrays some of Neville's tennis matches, while Inspector Leach picks up a racket as well. But Jackson-Cohen and Rhys admit that their real-life prowess on the court left a lot to be desired.

'My tennis is embarrassingly bad,' smiles Jackson-Cohen. 'But it's great the way the tennis scenes have been shot, even though I'm never really hitting a ball.'

'Yes, we had this wonderful South African coach who looked on with horror at our first lesson,' laughs Rhys. 'He said. "You two are so bad, but maybe people will think that's how they played tennis in 1936!"'

Hooray for HOLLYWOOD!

Can Demi Moore clinch a long-awaited Oscar?

LIVE AWARDS

Oscars

Sunday, 10.30pm, ITV1

The biggest event in the show-business calendar is set to dazzle this Sunday as Hollywood's starriest names gather in Los Angeles for the 97th Academy Awards, presented by first-time host Conan O'Brien.

British film fans can watch all the glitz and glamour on ITV1 from 10.30pm as Jonathan Ross hosts more than four hours of live coverage, including the red-carpet arrivals.

PRAISED PERFORMANCE

Among the nominees is Demi Moore, who has received her first Oscar nod for her performance in The Substance, a mind-bending body-horror flick that satirises Hollywood's obsession with youth and beauty.

Her role as Elisabeth Sparkle, an ageing fitness TV host who uses a black-market drug to spawn a younger alter ego, has already bagged the 62-year-old a Golden Globe.

'I was at a low point when I had this out-of-the-box, bonkers script come across my desk called The Substance,' recalls Moore. 'I thought, "OK, this I can dive into. This is something I can bring all of myself to."

The Substance has five nominations, including Best Picture, and Moore faces stiff competition in the Actress in a Leading Role category from Cynthia Erivo (Wicked), Karla Sofia Gascón (Emilia Pérez), BAFTA-winner Mikey Madison (Anora) and Fernanda Torres (I'm Still Here).

The former wife of Bruce Willis, Moore began her screen career on TV soap General Hospital in the 1980s, before making a name for herself on the big-screen in Blame It on Rio. She's since starred in Ghost, Indecent Proposal and Disclosure and became the highest-paid actress in the world when she earned $12.5 million for her role in 1996 flop Striptease.

Her career slowed as she concentrated on family life, but Moore has recently found a new audience on the small screen with roles in Feud: Capote Vs The Swans and Landman. Now, whatever happens at the Oscars, Moore is looking forward to being back in the spotlight.

'This feels like a new beginning,' she says. 'I don't know where it's going, but I'm excited.'

Wallace & Gromit: Vengeance Most Fowl

Vengeance Most Fowl for Animated Feature Film.

3 At 215 minutes, The Brutalist is the fifth-longest Best Picture nominee of all time. Cleopatra (1963) holds the record with 244 minutes.

4 Fernanda Torres (I'm Still Here) is nominated 26 years after her mother Fernanda Montenegro, becoming only the second mother-daughter Actress in a Leading Role nominees after Judy Garland and Liza Minnelli.

5 This year's ceremony will pay tribute to the heroes and victims of the Los Angeles wildfires and showcase the city's 'beauty and resilience'.

FIVE FUN FACTS

1 Ralph Fiennes (Conclave) has an Actor in a Leading Role nomination 28 years after he was up for the same gong for The English Patient. That's the second-longest gap in the category after Henry Fonda's 41 years.

2 Other British nominees are Cynthia Erivo

Ralph Fiennes (centre) in Conclave

Victorian sleuth Miss Scarlet has a new man in her life...

NEW CRIME DRAMA

Miss Scarlet

Wednesday, 9pm, U&Alibi (box set, Sky Box Sets, Virgin TV Box Sets & NOW)

Fans of Miss Scarlet and The Duke were worried that it might be the end for the Victorian crime drama when actor Stuart Martin quit his role as William 'The Duke' Wellington, with the detective leaving London for a job in New York.

But, this week, there's a new case, a new detective and a new title as Kate Phillips returns to play private detective Miss Eliza Scarlet.

As the six-part series begins, it's been months since The Duke's departure after confessing his true feelings to Eliza, and she is heartbroken after their tender kiss. Throwing herself into her work at the agency, she is soon on the trail of a missing lord accused of murder – and crosses paths with Scotland Yard's new Detective Inspector, Alexander Blake (The Windors' Tom Durant Pritchard).

'As ex-military, Alexander is a man of order and structure who's always been used to doing his job a certain way,' says Durant Pritchard, 37. 'He doesn't like outside interference, and certainly doesn't want private detectives trying to meddle in his business. However, Eliza's very good at what she does, so his views on private detectives soon alter.'

WILL THEY, WON'T THEY?

But as the pair begin to bond professionally, could a new romance be on the cards for Eliza?

'I'm all in for a "will they, won't they?"' smiles Phillips, 35, who starred as Jane Seymour in Wolf Hall. 'But Eliza's an independent woman whose agency is thriving and Miss Scarlet will always be about a woman carving her own way in a man's world. Plus, Eliza's hopeful The Duke might return from New York – so the door's not firmly shut on that chapter.'

Back alongside Eliza are housekeeper Ivy Woods (Cathy Belton), trusty accountant Clarence Pettigrew (Paul Bazely) and grumpy DS Phelps, played by Tim Chipping – who shared a funny moment on set with his new co-star.

'We were filming a scene taking place at the morgue with Phelps and Alexander talking over a man's dead body,' recalls Durant Pritchard. 'I was about 30 seconds into this speech when the actor playing the corpse started snoring. For the hour we were filming, he just kept nodding off!'

Rob Beckett poses some more telly-based teasers

NEW ENTERTAINMENT

Rob Beckett's Smart TV

Wednesday, 9pm, Sky Max & Sky Showcase

Comedian Rob Beckett is back to host another season of his telly-based panel show Smart TV, with team captains Alison Hammond and Josh Widdicombe once again going head-to-head. This week, the trio welcome guests Richard Ayoade, Danny Dyer, Motsi Mabuse and Richard Osman, who'll be testing their TV knowledge in quirky quiz rounds, such as guessing how Midsomer Murders' victims met their deaths, while guests later in the run include Richard Madeley and Call the Midwife's Helen George.

Here, Beckett, 39, reveals what we can expect from the new series...

Is it good to be back together with the team? Yes, I love working with Alison and Josh. It's a cheeky competition and there's a great rivalry – laughing at Alison is too good, and Josh gets teased a lot as well. Josh still has the upper hand. Alison couldn't have got worse, but she's improving.

Who was the best guest this series? I loved having Danny Dyer on the show. Nitro from Gladiators [Harry Aikines-Aryeetey] was good fun, too, especially his dancing.

What TV programmes do you love? Back in the day, my favourite shows were The Sopranos, Peep Show, The Office and Only Fools and Horses. But my current obsession is Love Island: All Stars. I don't know who any of these people are, but it's still good.

Do you have a laugh behind the scenes on the show? We really get on – we're not faking it. A good behind-the-scenes moment was when I had a bad shoulder and Alison recommended her masseur to me. It felt a bit weird, booking a male masseur to come to my hotel bedroom. But I booked him anyway... and then he ghosted me! Never turned up. We had a right laugh about it.

What else can I watch?

Six years on, Charlie Cox returns
as the New York vigilante...

Murdock with friends Karen

Matt comes up against

The best of Netflix, Prime Video, Disney+ and more...

Daredevil: Born Again

NEW Available: Wednesday 5 March
Genre: Superhero drama Season: 1
Eps: 9 (first two eps from 5 March, then weekly)

Six years after the cancellation of Netflix's Daredevil, the blind vigilante known by day as lawyer Matt Murdock (Charlie Cox) returns this week to patrol the streets of New York City in a new series for Disney+.

In the years since we last saw him, Matt has been focusing on his legal practice with colleagues Karen Page (Deborah Ann Woll) and Franklin 'Foggy' Nelson (Elden Henson). But with his nemesis Wilson Fisk (Vincent D'Onofrio), AKA Kingpin, running for mayor, the city needs Daredevil more than ever.

Here, in an exclusive interview with TV&Satellite Week, Cox, 42, reveals why he's delighted to don the suit once again...

Did the call to return come as a welcome surprise? There were at least two years where I was convinced the journey had come to an end, so it's been an emotional rollercoaster. When I got a phone call from [Marvel Studios president] Kevin Feige in 2020 asking if I was interested in coming back, I was elated. I felt I still had a lot to offer the character and I never got a chance to properly say goodbye, so I was thrilled – I've loved every minute of this.

Where do we find Matt at the start of the series? We didn't want to feel like we were too tied in to very recent history, so enough time has passed whereby we don't need to reference the aftermath [of the original series]. Matt has found a good balance: he's managing to operate as a lawyer and run the company with Karen and Foggy, and at times he still goes out at night in his Daredevil suit...

How did you find the physical demands of the role this time? I've discovered my body is not what it was 10 years ago! But I love the physical aspect of this character, and being involved in the stunts as much as possible.

What can you reveal about his relationship with Kingpin? There's so much loathing and distrust. The producers thought it would be fun to bring us together early on, in a way where we have learnt in some capacity to trust the other's word. But promises are broken!

You're about to start filming Season 2. Can you give us any teasers? I've read quite a few of the scripts, and I think they're some of the best I've ever read. There's a tonal shift: it has the feeling of more of a suspenseful thriller. More than anything, I'm just over the moon that we get to keep doing it.

A troubled prince plots to preserve his family's legacy in 19th-century Sicily

NETFLIX The Leopard

NEW Available: Wednesday 5 March
Genre: Drama Season: 1 Episodes: 6

The decline and fall of Sicily's aristocracy is at the heart of this sumptuous Italian period drama based on Giuseppe Tomasi di Lampedusa's world-famous 1958 novel The Leopard.

Set against the backdrop of revolution in the 1860s, the six-part sweeping epic follows the erudite and melancholic Don Fabrizio Corbera, the Prince of Salina (Kim Rossi Stuart), who fears his family's future is under threat as General Giuseppe Garibaldi and his Redshirts are leading Italy towards unification.

His gilded way of life with his wife Princess Maria Stella (Astrid Meloni) is rapidly crumbling as the bourgeoisie gain power and influence. But when his rebellious nephew, Tancredi (Saul Nanni), falls for the wealthy, middle-class Angelica (Deva Cassel), Don Fabrizio tries to mastermind a marriage that could secure his status.

There's just one problem – his daughter, Concetta (Benedetta Porcaroli), is desperately in love with Tancredi and is already promised to him. Will Don Fabrizio choose his favourite child's happiness over his own legacy?

'I read the book in my 20s and thought it was wonderful,' says House of Cards and The Serpent director Tom Shankland, who helmed four episodes. 'It's a profound and touching experience of family life and the way it has to navigate huge, turbulent historical changes.'

ENDURING QUESTIONS

Sicilian writer and nobleman Tomasi di Lampedusa based the much-loved book on the life of his great-grandfather, the Prince of Lampedusa, who was first portrayed on screen by Burt Lancaster in the award-winning 1963 film.

This TV retelling – filmed in Palermo, Syracuse, Catania and Rome – is already being described as the Italian equivalent of The Crown.

'I hope it will give viewers a way of reflecting on what's been going on in the last few years, when we've had pandemics, crazy politics and all the rest of it,' says Shankland. 'How do we survive as families, as humans? What changes and what doesn't?'

The Duchess of Sussex shares her entertaining tips

NEW Available: Tuesday 4 March
Genre: Factual Season: 1 Episodes: 8

If you've ever wanted to bake the perfect cake, create delicious doughnuts or make your own honey, then Meghan, Duchess of Sussex, is on hand this week to share gardening, cooking and entertaining tips in her eight-part lifestyle series, With Love, Meghan.

Filmed partly at her home in California, which she shares with Prince Harry and their two children, the Duchess will be sharing tips on everything from flower arranging to baking focaccia as she invites a range of guests – including chefs Roy Choi and Alice Waters, her former Suits co-star Abigail Spencer and actor-comedian Mindy Kaling – to join her as she rolls up her sleeves in her kitchen and garden.

'I'm going to share some little tips and tricks,' she explains. 'I've always loved taking something pretty ordinary and elevating it. This is about connecting with friends, making new friends, and just learning. We're not in the pursuit of perfection, we're in the pursuit of joy. Love is in the details.'

Postponed in the wake of the Los Angeles wildfires earlier this year, the series is part of a multimillion-pound deal that the Sussexes struck with Netflix for a raft of programming that's already delivered Prince Harry's Polo docuseries. The couple's upcoming projects for the streaming service reportedly include an adaptation of bestselling romance novel Meet Me at the Lake by Carley Fortune.

Martin Compston faces shocking allegations in a psychological thriller

Fear

NEW Available Tuesday 4 March
Genre: Thriller Season: 1 Eps: 3

Line of Duty actor Martin Compston teams up with The Lazarus Project's Anjali Mohindra to play a couple pushed to breaking point when their menacing neighbour accuses them of child abuse in Prime Video's three-part psychological thriller Fear.

When Martyn (Compston) and Rebecca (Mohindra) relocate from London to a beautiful new house in Glasgow with their two young children, life seems pretty perfect – even their basement-dwelling neighbour, Jan (Solly McLeod), brings them homemade food.

'Jan offers friendship and a sense of community, which is what Martyn and Rebecca have perhaps been starved of in London,' says Mohindra, 35. 'Jan appears to Rebecca as this wounded soul, but it's not long before the relationship turns on its head and we start to see more of Jan's insidious tendencies...'

Jan begins making unsettling remarks towards Rebecca, kick-starting a campaign of torment against the couple, and he ends up alleging that they are physically, mentally and sexually abusing their children.

'It's probably the worst thing any parent can be accused of and, these days, an accusation seems to stick before there's any evidence,' Compston, 40, says of the drama, which also stars James Cosmo as Martyn's estranged father.

CYBER SNOOPING

As Jan steps up his intimidation, Martyn and Rebecca believe he's been stalking them through their phones and laptops. With the authorities refusing to step in, they feel helpless – so Martyn takes drastic action.

'We also learn that Jan has endured a horrific past, so this drama poses two questions: "How far would you go to protect your children?" and, "How much does historic childhood trauma excuse present behaviour?"' says Compston, who has a home in Greenock, near Glasgow, and enjoyed the chance to film in Scotland.

'Martyn and Rebecca's house is in Glasgow's West End, a very desirable postcode,' says Compston. 'It was nice being close to my place in Greenock, so I could nip home and I also took the cast and crew to different bars and restaurants in Glasgow. I felt like a tour guide!'

MARBLED FOUR-EYED FROG

'It's a remarkable frog that lives high up in the Andes, where it's brutally cold – so cold that the frogs freeze solid at night and effectively die. But then every morning they thaw themselves out and regenerate. Nobody really knows how, but it's incredible.'

'There are mass aggregations of flamingos at Chile's salt lakes, where females choose mates on the basis of their dancing. What's weird is that they don't dance individually, they dance en masse, so you get these huge groups of them all dancing in synchrony. We filmed a lovely dance-off sequence that's a bit like a disco.'

BISON

'Bison were once one of the most abundant herbivores on the planet and yet humanity almost exterminated them to extinction. It's wonderful to see them in such huge numbers now. Tourists even come to watch them rutting, but you wouldn't want to get too close.'

BURROWING OWL

'My favourite sequence comes in an episode about the Gulf Coast, where we film this tiny owl who's missed out on all the females when everyone else has paired off. Finally, a female flies down and winks at him as if to say, "OK, then!" It's a really relatable story.'

BLUE WHALE

'We have some once-in-a-generation footage of not just one blue whale, but four together. They're displaying this remarkable behaviour where they're racing each other and leaping out of the ocean. It's amazing how we're still witnessing new things that we've never seen before.'

Sporting superstar Muhammad Ali

Ali was interviewed 12 times by David Frost over 34 years. The boxer even visited the chat-show host's home in London and allowed Frost the only interview the night he regained his heavyweight title against George Foreman in 1974's famous Rumble in the Jungle.

Now, Sky's David Frost Vs looks back at some of the funny and fiery exchanges between the pair, starting in 1968 with an interview that took place against the backdrop of America's civil-rights movement as Ali faced a possible prison sentence for refusing the Vietnam War draft.

'Dad first met Muhammad Ali when Ali's back was against the wall,' says Frost's son, the Sky News presenter Wilfred Frost. 'As one of the biggest chat-show hosts of the time, Dad was in a unique position to get to the heart of what this fascinating man had to say.'

1974's Rumble in the Jungle

'Dad had great sympathy with the cause of civil rights and he believed Ali was a great champion for Black Americans. He also cared about Ali and wanted to help him.'

When Ali returned to the ring in 1971 for a title bout against Joe Frazier, Frost had a ringside seat. He also commentated on the Rumble in the Jungle fight, and by then the two had struck up a friendship.

BIG HITTERS

'David was very warm and friendly,' says Ali's former wife Khalilah Ali, who appears in the documentary. 'There were so many injustices for Black people at the time. But David was always a positive interview. He wasn't trying to condemn Ali, which meant he was more relaxed.'

The pair's final televised exchange came in 2002. By then, Ali had been battling Parkinson's disease for almost 20 years, yet the mutual admiration remained.

'All of Dad's interviews with Ali are so strong and so powerful,' says Wilfred Frost. 'You get a new take on Ali's life because they're deeply personal. Dad got the best out of him.'

Maria

The life of opera sensation Maria Callas, played with panache by Angelina Jolie

BIOPIC

Available now, to buy or rent from digital stores including Sky Store, Prime Video and others ★★★★★

Angelina Jolie goes full diva in this plush, extravagant biopic of legendary operatic soprano singer Maria Callas, which sees Chilean director Pablo Larraín completing his loose trilogy of films about three of the 20th-century's most iconic women: Jacqueline Kennedy (2016's Jackie starring Natalie Portman) and Princess Diana (2021's Spencer starring Kristen Stewart).

Scripted by the prolific Steven Knight (who also wrote Spencer, but is probably best known for TV smash Peaky Blinders), the film follows the ailing, reclusive Callas during the final week of her life before her death in Paris in 1977 at the age of 53, with black-and-white flashbacks evoking key episodes from her past, including her teenage years in Nazi-occupied Athens, her long relationship with shipping tycoon Aristotle

Onassis (Haluk Bilginer) and her dazzling musical triumphs.

Jolie looks fabulous (as does the film's re-creation of 1970s Paris), while splendidly capturing both Callas' imperious hauteur and her tragic vulnerability. Selected arias on the soundtrack show off Callas in her thrilling vocal prime, while her ravaged but still affecting 1977 singing voice was created by a synthesised blend of Callas' recordings and Jolie's own vocals. 2024, 12, 123MIN

Mia Goth has roaringly good fun as Maxine in writer-director Ti West's trilogy-closing slasher tale, following X (see p27) and prequel Pearl (still the best of the bunch). An adult-movie success circa 1985, Maxine is chasing a legit LA acting career. But (real-life) serial killer Richard Ramirez, aka the Night Stalker, is on the loose and killing sex workers Maxine knows. Detectives Michelle Monaghan and Bobby Cannavale aim to take him down, while Kevin Bacon (relishing his role) is an odious private eye and Elizabeth Debicki plays a no-nonsense movie director. ★★★

Taking a loose approach to adapting the much-loved picture book of the same name, this opens with an inventive animated sequence featuring the baby whose scribbles come to life. It's not long till he grows up, and when his narrator's voice goes quiet, a journey to the real world ensues, in which Harold takes on the form of Zachary Levi, and his pals Moose (Lil Rel Howery) and Porcupine (Tanya Reynolds) become humans.

Anything that Harold draws with his magic crayon becomes real in our world too, much to the delight of his newfound young friend Mel (Benjamin Bottani). It's an inherently fun idea that the film makes solid use of.

There's plenty here that feels familiar – Levi's manchild-out-of-water recalls Shazam! and that film's major touchstone, Big, while the presence of Zoëy Deschanel reinforces the Elf parallels (her single mum, Terri, is even unhappily working in a department store here). But it's all assembled in a big-hearted, slickly put together confection that entertains without outstaying its welcome, and delivers its uncomplicated messages without too much sentimentality. 2024, PG, 90MIN

This brash, funny sequel does exactly what it says on the bullet-riddled tin. Relishing their roles, smart-mouth bodyguard Ryan Reynolds (who's now sworn off guns), hitman Samuel L Jackson and his nutty wife Salma Hayek enjoy a madcap mission to bring down Antonio Banderas' slippery bad guy, who's got hold of a drill that can cause a devastating power surge across Europe. 2020, 15, 100MIN

Sex ●●● Violence ●●● Language ●●●

When reclusive Bruce Cogburn (a magnificently committed Guy Pearce, sporting a commendable northern accent) is hounded by a determined fan/harasser, it leads him down a twisty, shifty rabbit-hole. Gruff alcoholic Cogburn's only book was used by a mass shooter as his main influence 25 years earlier, which has given him writer's block since. But there's more than meets the eye in this slow-burn chiller that also stars Alice Eve. 2022, 15, 111MIN

It's 1979 and a group of friends retreat to a Texas farm to make a porn film. But when the old couple who it belongs to find out, bloody carnage ensues... Ti West's retro horror relishes the look and feel of its era's chillers, but puts his own devilish spin on proceedings, helped by a game cast headed by a wonderfully off-kilter Mia Goth (as one of the porn party and the farm owner). 2022, 18, 105MIN

SUNDAY

Newcastle United v Brighton

Kick-off 1.45pm, ITV1

The Magpies are already guaranteed one Wembley appearance this season, as they prepare for the EFL Cup final against Liverpool on 16 March. Eddie Howe's men will be keen to make the most of home advantage against a Brighton side that won the sides' league meeting at St James' Park in October when Danny Welbeck scored the only goal.

THE MAIN EVENT

FA Cup fifth round

Liverpool, Arsenal, Chelsea and Spurs have already been knocked out of this season's FA Cup. So, which Premier League giant will be next to fall? Here's our guide to the fifth round's seven televised ties...

Can giant-killers Plymouth Argyle pull off another sensational upset?

FRIDAY 28 FEBRUARY

Aston Villa v Cardiff City

Kick-off 8pm, ITV1

Seven-time winners Villa are in the fifth round for the first time in a decade, while 2008 finalists Cardiff last reached this stage in 2014. Unai Emery's Villa side – including two-time winner Marcus Rashford – will fancy their chances of a first trophy since the League Cup in 1996.

Marcus Rashford

SATURDAY

Crystal Palace v Millwall

Kick-off 12.15pm, BBC1

Teenage winger Romain Esse faces his former club in this tasty south London derby after switching from Millwall to Palace in January for £12 million. The sides last met in the Cup in 2022 when the Eagles' Jean-Philippe Mateta was on the scoresheet in a 2-1 win.

Romain Esse of Crystal Palace

Preston North End v Burnley

Kick-off 12.15pm, BBC iPlayer

Remarkably, the Lancashire rivals have never met in the FA Cup before, and this Deepdale tie will ensure at least one Championship side in the quarter-finals. The sides met in the league on 15 February when Clarets keeper James Trafford kept a clean sheet in a 0-0 draw – his 11th consecutive league shut-out, a record in the second tier.

James Trafford

Manchester City v Plymouth Argyle

Kick-off 5.45pm, ITV4

Argyle produced one of the Cup's greatest upsets when a penalty from Ryan Hardie dispatched Liverpool at Home Park. The reward is a massive tie against Pep Guardiola's City, who have not lost to a lower-league side since 2018, but narrowly avoided a giant-slaying by Leyton Orient in the fourth round.

LIVE MOTORCYCLING

New MotoGP season

Saturday & Sunday, TNT Sports 2 & Discovery+

Prima Pramac Racing's Jorge Martín became the first independent team rider to be crowned world champion when he pipped Ducati's Francesco Bagnaia to the title last year. The Spaniard won just three races compared with 11 chequered flags for Bagnaia, but his 32 podiums across sprints and races earned him the title by 10 points. The 27-year-old has since switched to Italian manufacturer Aprilia Racing, but broke his hand in pre-testing and faces a race to be fit for the 2025 opener in Thailand. In a new deal this season, free-to-view channel Quest will also be showing the sprint races later on Saturdays, while TNT Sports and Discovery+ will have live coverage of all Moto2, Moto3 and MotoGP sessions.

Manchester United v Fulham

Kick-off 4.30pm, BBC1

Captain Bruno Fernandes would love another good Cup campaign to ease some of the pressure on an underperforming United. The holders have done the league double over Fulham this season, and also won a fiery Cup quarter-final encounter at Old Trafford two years ago that saw the Cottagers reduced to nine men, plus a red card for boss Marco Silva.

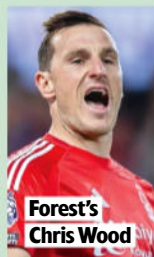

MONDAY

Nottingham Forest v Ipswich Town

Kick-off 7.30pm, ITV4

A second-string Forest needed penalties to get past 10-man Exeter City in the fourth round, while Ipswich fielded an equally weakened side in a 4-1 romp at Coventry as the Tractor Boys progressed to the fifth round for the first time since 2007.

A Chris Wood penalty separated the sides when they met in the league at the City Ground in November.

Saturday, kick-off 9.30pm, Sky Sports Action, Sky Sports Main Event, Sky Mix & Sky Showcase

Super League gets a sprinkle of Vegas glamour this week as Wigan and Warrington contest the first-ever fixture to be played in the USA. The rivals will meet at the 65,000-capacity Allegiant Stadium in Nevada, home of NFL side Las Vegas Raiders. Champions League

The remaining British clubs return to action...

As the new-look format of the Champions League reaches the round-of-16 this week, the three British clubs play their first-leg fixtures across Tuesday and Wednesday on TNT Sports and Prime Video.

The draw had yet to take place as TV&Satellite Week went to press, but Liverpool, Arsenal and Aston Villa will all be hoping for favourable match-ups after qualifying automatically by finishing in the top eight of the league phase. However, Manchester City and Celtic both fell by the wayside, dispatched by Real Madrid and Bayern Munich.

After topping the league phase, Liverpool's possible opponents were Benfica or Paris Saint-Germain as Arne Slot's Reds seek a seventh European Cup, while Villa were down to face one of Club Brugge or Borussia Dortmund, and Arsenal matched against PSV Eindhoven or Feyenoord.

Luis Diaz, Mikel Merino
and Emiliano Martinez

teams so far in this competition in Bromley and Birmingham City and will be looking to move a step closer to another cup final.

The Assassin

Freddie Highmore and Keeley Hawes star in a fraught thriller

Here's an enticing look at Prime Video's upcoming drama The Assassin, following an estranged mother and son who must team up on a dangerous mission.

The six-part drama, penned by The Missing and The Tourist creators Harry and Jack Williams, begins on a stunning but remote Greek island, where enigmatic former hired killer Julie, played by Keeley Hawes, is spending her retirement. Trouble brews, however, when she receives a visit from her son Edward, played by Freddie Highmore, who is over from England and is desperate for answers about his paternity.

But after Julie's deadly past suddenly returns to haunt her, the pair have to escape the island and go on the run together across the globe, as they battle to survive in the face of a chilling conspiracy.

DANGEROUS LIAISONS

Gina Gershon, Shalom Brune-Franklin, Jack Davenport, Alan Dale, Gerald Kyd, Devon Terrell, Richard Dormer and David Dencik co-star.

'I feel so lucky to have spent the summer in Athens with the wonderful Freddie Highmore,' says Hawes. 'Bringing Jack and Harry's spectacular scripts to life was an absolute joy – going to work has never been so much fun.'

'It doesn't get better than a Greek adventure alongside the lovely and incomparable Keeley Hawes!' adds Highmore. 'I feel very lucky that Harry and Jack entrusted us with their characteristically thrilling writing.'

WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

David Harewood

C4's drama Pierre will see the actor play the titular London-based duty solicitor who investigates when his client, a young Black man, dies in suspicious circumstances, but a dark web of corruption soon unravels.

Graham Norton

In ITV1's reality game show The Neighbourhood, the presenter will oversee proceedings as a range of households move in next door to each other and take part in a series of challenges to win a cash prize.

Daisy Haggard

The actor will write and star in C4's six-part thriller Maya, about a mother and her teenage daughter who enter witness protection in a rural town, but the past still proves a danger as hitmen are on their trail.

Coming Back

Simon Pegg will return as GCHQ supremo Danny Patrick in a second run of C4 thriller The Undeclared War, where the intelligence agency deals with a terrifying new threat. Siân Brooke joins as Danny's analyst wife, Barbara.
